

Marketing for Army Morale, Welfare, and Recreation (MWR) Programs follows traditional Marketing concepts as applied to service industries. The Department of the Army Marketing web site provides a platform from which to share market information, information about our customers, central studies, and tools to assist Army Marketers in their support of the local commander and MWR program managers.